

On Thursday 3rd March 2016 Preston Manor marked World Book Day with a bang! Author Jane Briton visited and spoke with students about reading for pleasure and a range of activities and competitions took place in the LRC. On the actual day, staff dressed up as famous literary characters with each department representing a different book-much to the students' delight! It was wonderful to hear students discuss the different characters and engage with these significant stories that are a part of our British culture.
